DR. H. A. BARROW

may be confidentially consulted, as usual, at his private office,

18 MAIN STREET, BANGOR, from 9 to 12 and from three till 6 P. M., and at

from 6 to 8 P. M.

Those who are suffering from the effects of early indiscretion, who may be restored to health and strength by consulting an educated Physician, who has made these diseases a specialty.

Dr. Barrow's treatment, during an extensive practice of many years, has been eminently successful in curing Nervous, Mental and Physical Debility, Exhaustion, Ineptitude for Business or Application, Diseases of Sight, Giddiness, or Noises in the Head or Ears, Painful Dreams, Pimples on the Face or Body, want of Nervous Force, Timidity, Bashfulness, Misery, Pains in the Back or Loins, Impaired Memory, Irritability, Weakness of the entire System, Palpitation of the Heart, General Indecision, and numerous other symptoms, leading to Premature Decay, Impotence, Sterility, Premature Senility, &c.

The Doctor particularly invites those patients whose cases have been neglected or pronounced incurable, to place themselves without delay under his care, assuring them all that can be accomplished by science, skill, and the successful results of a long practice, will be at their service.

He honestly states no case will be undertaken unless permanent cure can be guaranteed.

All letters containing the usual consultation fee of [illegible] and fully describing the case, will be be immediately attended to.

All letters and parcels for Dr. Barrow to be directed Franklin House, Bangor.

THE BOSTON FIRE

did not kill

PRESIDENT GRANT,

Neither did it destroy the most appropriate

SEWING MACHINE ATTACHMENT

ever invented. This simple little machine, which is no less than

winds the thread on a bobbin without the use of a person's hands, as even as thread is wound on a spool by the manufacturers. This, as every lady knows, is a very important thing in order to get an even tension, and it is very hard to do without these machines, which not only save an abundance of time, but wind one-third more thread on a bobbin. The Attachment is confined to the machine in the same place as the old one, and the price is within the reach of all. Can be seen in operation at

RHEUMATISM NEURALGIA

of Chronic and Acute Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica, Kidney, and Nervous Diseases, after years of suffering, by taking Dr. Fitler's Vegetable Rheumatic Syrup—the scientific discovery of J. P. Fitler, M. D., a regular graduate physician, with whom we are personally acquainted, who has for 39 years treated these diseases exclusively with astonishing results. We believe it our christian duty, after deliberation, to conscientiously request sufferers to use it, especially persons in moderate circumstances who cannot afford to waste money and time on worthless mixtures. As clergymen we seriously feel the deep responsibility resting on us in publicly endorsing this medicine. But our knowledge and experience of its remarkable merit fully justifies our action. Yours truly, &c., Rev. C. H. Ewing, Media, Penn'a, suffered sixteen years, became hopeless. Rev. Thomas Murphy, D. D., Frankford, Philadelphia. Rev. J. B. Davis, Hightstown, New Jersey. Rev. J. S. Buchanan, Clarence, Iowa. Rev. G. G. Smith, Pittsford, New York. Rev. Joseph Beggs, Falls Church, Philadelphia. Other testimonials from Senators, Governors, Judges, Congressmen, Physicians, &c., forwarded gratis with pamphlet explaining these diseases. One thousand dollars will be presented to any medicine for same diseases showing equal merit under test, or that can produce one-fourth as many living cures. Any person sending by letter a description of affliction will receive without charge (if considered curable) a legally signed guarantee, naming the exact number of bottles warranted to cure, agreeing to refund amount paid in case of its failure to cure. Price per bottle, $1.25; can be bought as used. Afflicted invited to write for medical advice on above diseases only. No charge for reply, which will contain much valuable information acquired by a lifetime practice. No compulsion to buy medicine. Address Dr. Fitler, Philadelphia. Printed explanations of the disease also furnished.

A DANGEROUS PAPER.—The green paper used to wrap about lozenges, sold in shops, railroad cars and on street corners, has long been suspected to contain arsenic, and with the view of ascertaining the facts by analysis we recently purchased a roll of lozenges covered with this paper.

A qualitative examination of the paper afforded all the characteristic reactions for arsenic and copper. The wrapper contained twenty square inches of paper. Of this, sixteen were taken for quantitative analysis.—The result of the examination showed that this portion contained .1515 grains, or 2.94 grains in the whole of the wrapper, a quantity sufficient to destroy life in an adult person. Children in all parts of the country are allowed to purchase the lozenges covered with this poisonous paper, and the rolls are often put into the hands of infants as a plaything. As everything goes into the mouth of young children, it is easy to see that no more dangerous substance can pass into a family than these packages of confectionery. It is quite probable that instances of poisoning have occurred from this cause which have been of a serious or fatal character. There should be laws prohibiting the use of poisonous papers for any purpose.—Journal of Chemistry.

HOW THEY SWITCH TRAINS IN ENGLAND.—A correspondent of an eastern paper gives the following account of how railroad trains are switched or "shunted" in England:

At 2:30 we steamed away north by the collieries, thick as far as the eye could reach, stopped a short time at Wigan, the scene of the fearful railroad disaster, saw where the car jumped on the roof of the furnace, killing those in it and the workmen below. The coroner's jury decided the cause of the accident to be "because the train left the metals" as they say for rails. They call switching "shunting;" the switchman here sits in a large glass house, built up ten feet above the track; rods run to all the switches within two miles, and are worked in this room by levers, which work like the levers for playing church chimes. The switches are always closed, so that the straight line is always right, unless the man's hand is on the lever which holds the points and throws the train on the other track. These switches answer only for going in one direction, and it is impossible for them to be misplaced except by design. They are in use all over Europe, and I think for safety they are more reliable than those in use in America. A telegraph and signal bell in the switchman's room tell him the position of all trains within his jurisdiction.

The Application of Steam Power to Dentistry.

And in making this announcement, I desire, also, to put upon record as a matter of fact, that I am the first operator in the world who has put into practical use, steam power in dentistry. For the past two months I have used it daily in every operation I have performed, and even excessively timid patients are delighted and charmed with the ease and absolute perfection with which it performs its labor. Out of the many who have had operations performed by its aid, there has never been one, not a single one, who has expressed a preference for the old hand methods, but upon the contrary, each one has been marked and profuse in their praise of this, the latest application of steam power. Very much might be said in its commendation, but the limits of an advertisement forbid, suffice it to say, realizing the facts fully, that were I to recommend anything in my practice which did not meet the approbation of my patients, it would be absolutely fatal to me, yet, so thoroughly does this meet the wishes of all my patients, as well as myself, that I feel warranted in giving it a hearty and emphatic endorsement as the nearest approach to perfection which can possibly be imagined. The superiority of its work is beyond all comparison. Having understood that a certain interested party in this city is crying out "danger from explosion" to his patients, I desire to call attention to the following card from Mr. Sullivan, prefacing it with the remark that I never desire to use over thirty pounds steam pressure which every patient can see by the gauge for themselves. After reading this card, let all such parties forever hold their peace, since it will be seen that the boiler has been constructed to carry 500—five hundred—pounds pressure per square inch, whereas I use but 30—thirty.

J. FREDERICK BABCOCK, D. D. S.
Dentist and Practitioner of Oral Surgery, Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, Kenduskeag Block, Bangor, Me.

CARD.

This is to certify that I, Daniel Sullivan of Bangor, Steam Boiler Manufacturer, have just completed, to the order of Dr. J. F. Babcock, one of my patent upright Tubular Steam Boilers made with the special intent and purpose of having it so exceedingly safe and strong as to stand under ordinary every day usage, if required, 500 pounds pressure per square inch, and I hereby guarantee that its strength is such as to safely stand a much greater pressure, if necessary, than the said 500 pounds per square inch.

JOHN H. LYNDE, PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, DEC. 23, 1873.

SOME HINTS TO CONGRESS.

[From the N. Y. Times]

Now that Congress has adjourned for the holidays, the members will have time to turn over in their minds what has been going on at Washington—and what is still more important, they may take the opportunity to find out how their constituents feel in regard to their actions and speeches. If it is any consolation to them, they may reflect, at least, that they have not been objects of indifference to the public. Their doings have been watched more attentively and more intelligently for the past three weeks than is at all usual with a new Congress of the off year in politics. A good many things have occurred to awaken the public mind to a strong interest in national politics since the Fall of 1872, when this Congress was elected, and the people are watching the course of their representatives very much more narrowly, and judging them very much more critically, than was the case a couple of years ago. And we beg to call the attention of Congressmen to the fact that they are not only more closely watched than heretofore, but that they are watched in a very different way. For many years before the last Presidential election, the people were so intent on the accomplishment of a few prominent ends, the establishment of a few great principles, that if Congressmen preserved a consistent record as to these, and kept in good standing with the office-holders and office-seekers at home, they were pretty sure of getting on. We do not say that all members of Congress contented themselves with this. They did not. Some of them labored as hard and as carefully as if the details of their task were constantly scrutinized. But most of them were well content, if they were not taken to task by their constituents, to do as little work as possible.

Now, as some Congressmen see, and as they will all do well to see, this state of things is changed. The people have had their minds unusually aroused to the daily transactions of Congress. They are on the lookout for things as to which they have been very indulgent in the past. They know there has been a good deal of jobbery, corruption, intriguing, self seeking, and recklessness of the public welfare in Congress. How could they help knowing it, when Congress has informed them? In the nature of things the public cannot know the limits of these evils. They are suspicious that there may be a great deal more than they have seen. They did not dream of what they have had proved to them until they saw it. They are watching very closely to detect what may be yet undisclosed.

We by no means regret this condition of the public mind. It is partly produced, it is true, by exaggerated and malicious fault-finding, but it is largely based on well-ascertained facts, and we are inclined to think that Congress will be none the worse for watching.

The impression made on the public mind by Congress thus far is not very favorable. The session began well. The members of both parties, with some slight exceptions, behaved with self control and discretion in regard to the Cuban affair. They reflected fairly the temper of the people, which was at once firm and sensible. The Republicans, moreover, set out well in the matter of the salary increase, by resolving on the substantial repeal of last year's bill, and by appointing a committee to carry out the purpose of the party. The organization of the House was accomplished promptly, and in the selection of Mr. BLAINE as Speaker, the House of Representatives showed its regard for the best opinion of the country, which cordially approves the manly and consistent course of that gentleman. The Senate proceeded immediately to business, and has borne itself throughout the brief session with dignity and has done as much business as could fairly be asked of it. It has forwarded the real business of the session as fast as possible, and it has entered on the discussion of financial affairs—which is all that could be reasonably expected. But the House has wasted an immense amount of time in talk over the salary measure, most of which has been personal, petty, bitter, unbusiness like and tedious. It has disappointed the hopes it raised at the beginning, and when every one was ready to praise, it has compelled us all to think of it with disappointment.

This is our view of the public feeling toward Congress. We trust that members will take ample opportunity to test its correctness. If they do, we are confident they will return to Washington in a frame of mind fitted for better work. They have a heavy responsibility resting on them. The country expects a great deal of them, and it will be their own fault if the country is disappointed.

Our article in Monday's issue, written on Saturday, expressing the opinion that the notorious character of the Virginius should prevent the exaction of a salute by Spain, was unexpectedly reinforced by despatches which arrived just before going to press, announcing that our Government had received conclusive proof that the vessel had no right to the flag and papers, which were fraudulently obtained, and no claim to the protection of the United States. Hence, according to the terms of the Protocol, the salute is waived, and the next thing in order is the prosecution of the owners and filibusters of the Virginius, for violation of our neutrality laws, while Spain is to institute proceedings against any of her officials who have violated Spanish law or treaty obligations in connection with this matter. We have no confirmation of, and do not credit, the report that Spain proposes to demand the return of the Virginius and prisoners; as the agreement signed by both Governments distinctly provided that the proceedings should be instituted in the Courts of the United States against the vessel and those engaged in the unlawful enterprise. The report of serious complications between Great Britain and Spain also lacks confirmation at this writing, and in view of the readiness manifested by Spain in according satisfaction to us, we see no reason why any just demands of Great Britain should fail to meet with a fair response.

It seems quite proper at this time to suggest to those ardent patriots who demanded the immediate bombardment of Cuban ports, and who aired so much eloquence about "American citizens dragging the ball and chain in the streets of Santiago," that if our Government had heeded their clamor and rushed into hostilities, we should have found ourselves in the rather ridiculous attitude of prosecuting a bloody war on account of a vessel which was fraudulently using our flag, and filibusters who had deliberately forfeited all claim to our protection. The belligerent journals are very quiet of late, and we do not wonder at their reticence.

The Weather Bureau is about to establish on the Atlantic coast, from Cape Hatteras northward, a system of coast signals designed to warn vessels that have been out of port for some days, of approaching foul weather. This will be the first service of the kind ever undertaken, and if it should prove successful will add to the great usefulness of a department that has thus far been managed with intelligence and judgment. With such a plan in operation the dangers of our New England coast would be greatly lessened, and navigation from the head of the Bay of Fundy to Cape Hatteras deprived of the greater share of its terrors.

It is believed that a majority of the Senate will not agree with the House in the total repeal of the bankrupt act, but will favor amending it so as to guard the debtor from exactions by a small minority of his creditors, leaving the question of involuntary bankruptcy to be determined by those who are more largely interested. The Senate Judiciary Committee will consider the subject during the recess.

The "Liberal Republican Party" in the National House of Representatives made no nominations for the various offices to be filled. There is only one of him—General Henry Bonaparte Banning of the Second District of Ohio. He has six "organs"—the New York Tribune, the Chicago Tribune, the Louisville Courier-Journal, the Cincinnati Commercial, the Springfield Republican and the Indianapolis Sentinel. By their combined efforts, during the last campaign, they succeeded in electing this one Representative out of 292. —Commonwealth.

In regard to the recent troubles in Henry Ward Beecher's church, a council of representatives from the leading Congregational churches all over the country, will be called by the churches of Drs. Storrs and Buddington, and the matter laid before them for their consideration. A new element has entered into the controversy by the disapproval of the proceedings manifested by the members of the protesting churches.

Dr. Thomas W. Evans, a well known resident of Paris, recently corrected a misstatement respecting the flight of the ex-Empress Eugenie from Paris after the battle of Sedan. He says she came to his house on the 4th of September, unattended by any one except Madame Lebreton, and on the next morning the three went in the doctor's own carriage to Deauville, whence they sailed in a yacht for England.

TWO DEMOCRATIC LEADERS. The Chicago Tribune says that "the support of Fernando Wood by the majority of the Democrats in Congress as their candidate for Speaker, has done more to destroy the faith of those who still cling to the Democratic party than any other event that has happened during all the years of party decay;" and it quotes from several Western Democratic papers in confirmation of that view.

A Washington correspondent of the Pittsburgh Chronicle has got enough of Sunset Cox, who, he says, "is as restless as a motherless colt, and exhibits just about as much discretion." His whole Congressional record may be searched in vain to disclose any sound, statesmanlike sentiment, but, says the correspondent: "Insignificant as he is, he has to be heard, and he has to be put down, and it takes valuable time, and it costs money, which, during the protracted sessions in which he participates, would cover the gross amounts of several salary grabs."

A San Francisco despatch says there is much rejoicing there and at Sacramento over the election of Booth for U. S. Senator. In joint convention of the Legislature, Saturday, he received sixty votes, one member being absent. Judge Hagar (Democrat) holds the lead in the balloting for the short term, and it is believed will be elected. Shafter stands second in favor, and Cole third. The two last named are Republicans.

AN APPEAL FOR TEMPERANCE. A large meeting was held in Washington, Sunday evening at Lincoln Hall, under the auspices of the Congressional Temperance Society. The following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That this meeting under the auspices of the Congressional Temperance Society, call upon the heads of families throughout the United States to discard all intoxicating liquors from entertainments tendered their friends and the public during the coming holidays.

THE SPRAGUE AFFAIRS. Mr. Chaffee, the Trustee under the Sprague mortgage, announces that he is prepared to issue to creditors of the A. & W. Sprague Manufacturing Co., and of A. & W. Sprague, notes secured by deed of mortgage bearing date of Nov. 1, 1873, in exchange for their obligations. He expects that the Print Works and all the mills will, in the course of a few days, be running on full time. The Trustee wishes the creditors to understand that the repeal of or modification of the bankrupt act, will not alter or in any way affect the purpose of the A. & W. Sprague Manufacturing Co., or of A. & W. Sprague to pay their creditors in accordance with the terms of their trust deed, and they propose to stand upon that instrument which devotes all their property to the equal benefit of their creditors.

CUBAN AFFAIRS. Officers of the steamer Cuba say that Captain General Jovellar has shown great nerve since assuming command in the Island and seems determined to quell the Volunteers into submission. If he does this he will make Havana more safe for Americans than it has been heretofore. It is said there are a great many liberal minded Spaniards in Cuba who are beginning to think seriously of granting Cuba her independence. Steamer Cuba brought several American passengers who had conversed with the officers of the war steamer Niobe, whose Commander interfered in the harbor of Santiago to stop the slaughter of the Virginius crew. The story among the British officers was that the Niobe's Commander threatened to sink the Spanish frigate in the harbor if any more executions were permitted.

He told [the] Kennebunk operator not to let the down pass as he was going back after some [illegible]. The operator hung out a red signal [and] said they would not dare to go by. We went back got our cars and were [going at] the rate of twelve miles an hour [when] I heard the whistle and immediately there was a collision. I was not thrown from my engine but crawled out with one shoulder [illegible] and [illegible] dislocated. I didn't see the [down] train; it was dark and thick.

[illegible] the Conductor of the down train, testified that when he arrived [at] Kennebunk, the operator told him the up [freight] train had gone back after some lost [illegible]. There was no signal light out. I stopped for water and asked the operator if [he] had any orders for me. He said "No." I asked him again; he then said "No." We started up and were probably going twelve miles an hour when I felt the steam shut off [and the] brakes were set at once and then we felt the collision. My brakemen were in the saloon car and on the engine. Expected to pass by the up freight train at Day's siding. Had I known they were west of Day's, would have stopped. After they had been at Kennebunk [they] would not have the right of way.

Manager [illegible] has telegraphed that the [illegible] will [illegible] in all possible ways [illegible] an impartial investigation. The [illegible] will last a week.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

ANOTHER NEW YORK HORROR!

MURDER AND ROBBERY!

TWO PERSONS BUTCHERED!

The Fiends Escape!

[THE] TRAGEDY DISCOVERED

[NEW YORK,] Dec 22. About 2 30 this [morning] cries of Murder were heard from [illegible] a five story tenement house, No [illegible] street. On officers entering the [building] they found the body of a man lying [in a pool] of blood with his throat cut from [ear to ear] and on entering the room of the [illegible] they found the dead body of a woman with her throat cut. The [stairs] [illegible] were covered with blood from the room where the dead body of the woman was found to the second landing where the body of the man was found.

EVIDENCE OF ROBBERY

It was first believed that the deceased [illegible] Ryan had cut his sister's throat and [then his] own but the police on instituting a search found the vest of the murdered man on the [floor]. The button hole which held the watch chain was pulled out and the pocket [rifled]. The box in which the deceased kept his bank book was missing. On the stairs leading to the roof as well as thereon, bare foot prints were found and it is the belief of the police that robbery and murder have been committed but so far no clue to the perpetrators has been discovered.

NEW YORK CITY
[TWEED] GENET ESCAPES—A SLEEPY SHERIFF—THE EXCUSE TOO THIN

NEW YORK Dec [22]. Harry Genet who was found guilty of fraud on Friday last, has escaped since his conviction. He has been in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Shields at his residence in Harlem. Shields sat up with him last night until [illegible] o clock. Genet then asked permission to go up stairs to see his [wife] saying that it might be the last time. Shields was satisfied that it was all right as [he] had allowed him to do the same thing the previous [day] and he had returned promptly.

A CONVENIENT NAP

The Deputy Sheriff felt fatigued and fell asleep [and did not] awaking until 7 o clock the next morning when he discovered that his prisoner was not to be found. He spoke to Mrs Genet but she denied that she had seen her husband at all and said he did not come up stairs. Shields then went to the Central Office and informed Matsell of the escape. A general alarm was telegraphed over the city but up to the present time nothing has been [heard] of his whereabouts.

AT THE COURT ROOM.

The crush and crowd in and around the Oyer and Terminer Court this forenoon was greater than at any time during the excitement of the Tweed trial. It was caused by the rumor that Genet had escaped. As soon as Judge Daniels took his seat District Attorney Phelps said that he had been informed the Sheriff would have to make inquiry [as to] his whereabouts. The Judge said [that Genet] was allowed to remain at his residence in the custody of officers. They allowed themselves to be overcome by sleep. It was a great neglect and misconduct on the part of the officers to keep this man in his residence. The Judge understood that the [Sheriff] have set on foot measures for his capture and until he ascertained whether they were successful no steps should be taken in the matter in the Court.

THE SHERIFF WARNED

Mr Phelps said that he heard on Saturday that an attempt would be made to escape, and he notified the Sheriff to that effect and to take precautions. Genet's counsel desired to perfect a bill of exceptions and make the application but the District Attorney preferred to do nothing with the case at present.

SHERIFF BRENNAN OFFERS $5 000 FOR GENET

Sheriff Brennan to-day offered a reward of $5 000 for the production and delivery at his office of Harry W Genet.

BRENNAN AND HIS DEPUTY HELD TO ANSWER.

Judge Daniels has granted an order against Sheriff Brennan and his Deputy, Shields, to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt in disregarding the order of the Court in not presenting Genet.

THE OTHER RING CASES

The District Attorney then had the Clerk call Michael Norton, (ex Senator,) Thomas Coman, John Walsh and Geo S. Miner, none of whom answered, but whose counsel explained that their clients did not expect to be called. After some discussion the recognizances were forfeited on all the indictments except against Coman, who was allowed to put in a plea Friday. There are five other indictments against him. Ex Mayor Hall's case was not taken up, although he was in Court all the morning.

TWEED'S WINTER RESIDENCE.

It is reported that Tweed will be brought up within a few days on a habeas corpus before the Court of Oyer and Terminer, when the question will be raised whether Blackwell's Island is a county jail or a place to which one convicted of a misdemeanor can be legally committed.

A YOUNG SCOUNDREL SENTENCED.

In the Court of General Sessions Henry Simon, a hardened youth of 18 years, was found guilty of a charge of rape on a little girl aged 8 years, and was sentenced to 20 years in the State Prison. Recorder Hackett, in passing the sentence, regretted that he was not in a position to pass a sentence of death.

THE VIRGINIUS CASE.

Evidence of Her Character.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION.

She Was Not Entitled to the Flag!

OPINIONS OF THE NEW YORK PAPERS

NEW YORK, Dec 22. The Attorney General's last reported decision regarding the Virginius constitutes the leading topic of discussion in the morning journals. The Tribune says that if our Government has really reached this decision there should be no hesitation in pressing with the utmost frankness and promptness the measures for the condemnation of the compromised vessel.

REALLY AN INSURGENT VESSEL

The Times says editorially that "we have no doubt whatever that the Virginius carried the American flag fraudulently, and that she was not only engaged in a filibustering expedition of the grossest kind, but that she was to all intents and purposes an insurgent steamer belonging to the Cubans, and only using the American flag as a blind to cover an illegal expedition. All this of course could not be known at first.

NO DOUBT OF HER STATUS

The Spanish Government has had time to put in its evidence, and, of course, that evidence would be placed before the Attorney General. From all that we know of it we should judge that the evidence in question leaves no doubt as to the true character of the Virginius. She has practiced a cheat upon the United States Government. She had no right to carry the American flag and was engaged in an enterprise which is a distinct violation of the law.

THE HERALD WILD AS USUAL

Per contra the Herald's Washington despatch contains a long statement to the effect that the right of the Virginius to carry our flag is fully established and that such is the judgment of the Administration. The Madrid report that the Spanish Government will make a demand for the return of the Virginius is not credited in Washington.

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OPINION

WASHINGTON Dec. 22. The official opinion of Attorney General Williams as to the status of the steamer Virginius dated 17th inst., is just furnished for publication. He recites the terms of the Protocol and then refers to provisions of the act of 1792, which detail the legal qualifications necessary to give the protection of the United States to vessels. The Fourth Section of that act provides that owners of a vessel before obtaining Registry therefor, must take oath that no foreigner is interested directly or indirectly in her or in her profits. The Attorney General, therefore, holds that if the Registry is obtained by false oath she cannot be entitled to the benefits of United States vessels.

THE VESSEL OWNED BY CUBANS

He then recites the fact that the Registry of the Virginius was obtained at New York by Patterson in 1870 for certain Cubans in New York, and Capt Shepherd, who left New York as her commander at that time testified to having been employed by Quesada and other Cubans. Testimony is given showing conclusively that the Virginius was bought by money raised by Cubans with the understanding that Patterson should appear as the nominal owner. Numbers of the crew employed after Patterson bought the vessel testify to Quesada commanding and treating them as if the vessel belonged to him. In addition to these facts no bond was ever given by Patterson or Capt. Shepherd as required by law. She was not insured even. The Attorney General, therefore holds that upon the navigation laws that she had no right to carry the American flag but she was exempt from interference on the high seas by another power.

THE RIGHT OF CAPTURE DISCUSSED

Spain has a right to capture any vessel carrying the American flag in Spanish waters, if endeavoring to assist the Cuban insurrection but no right to capture such a vessel on the high seas, upon an apprehension that she was on her way to assist the rebellion. Spain may defend her territory from hostile attacks from what may appear to be American vessels, but has no jurisdiction over the question whether such a vessel is on the high seas in violation of United States laws. Spain cannot rightfully raise that question as to the Virginius but the United States may and says the Attorney General. As I understand the Protocol they have agreed to do it, and governed by this agreement, and without admitting that Spain would otherwise have any interest in the question, I decide that the Virginius, at the time of her capture, was without right and improperly carrying the American flag.

EXCITEMENT OF MEMBERS OF CUBAN JUNTA.

NEW YORK Dec 22. A despatch from Washington says that members of the Cuban Junta now here are greatly excited over Attorney General Williams' decision and allege that the affidavits submitted to Secretary Fish by Admiral Polo and furnished to Attorney General Williams for his information are forgeries, and prepared by Spaniards. The Cubans allege that they but raised the money to secure Capt Patterson against loss in case the vessel was destroyed or captured while engaged in landing arms and munitions of war and the receipts given at the time the money was paid over will show this state of facts.

PATTERSON TO BE ARRESTED

As soon as the Virginius arrives at a Northern port proceedings looking to her condemnation will be begun and steps will be taken to arrest Patterson for perjury.

SPAIN

THE CARTAGENA STRUGGLE.

LONDON Dec 22. The correspondent of the Standard, near Cartagena, telegraphs that three men were killed by the recent magazine explosion. The besiegers received reinforcements of 1,500 men on Friday, and 4 000 more are expected to arrive before the assault which will probably be made here next week. The insurgents are demoralized and desertions are frequent. Contreras has arrested Barcia for advising submission.

SLIGHT FIRE. About six o clock Saturday afternoon fire was discovered near the edger table in the new mill of the Great Works Milling and Manufacturing Company, at Bradley, but it was quickly extinguished by throwing on snow, and no damage resulted. The fire is supposed to have originated from the pipes of some boys, who, if they come about the mill again will probably get "warmed" themselves.

PATENTS. The following is a list of patents issued to Maine Inventors under date of Dec 2 1873, reported by W F Seavey solicitor of Patents:—

James Patterson, Bangor, bridle-blind.
C B Conant, Lewiston, photograph burnisher.
Thomas Merrill, Portland combined ruler and blotter.
George Coffen, Portland, safety attachment for car trucks.

A FINE RESIDENCE, is that which is nearly completed on First-st., for Dr J M Blaisdell. The edifice is two stories in height, with a Mansard roof, and stands on a commanding and airy site. It contains twelve large rooms, all elegantly finished, and with high walls. The cellar is probably one of the best in town, high, light and well ventilated. The house is piped for water, which can be tapped in every room. Mr Davenport is now completing the plumbing. The joiner and carpenter work has been done under the superintendence of Mr John Cates, who commenced August 1st, and will complete it by January 1st.

THE TRICKS AND THE HABITS OF THE MADAWASKA SETTLERS.—A recent visitor to the French settlement in northeastern Maine visited a woman ninety-seven years old and entirely blind. He found her sitting in her rocking chair, very busily engaged in picking to pieces a piece of old yarn with a large needle. Beside her lay a small quantity of hair that had been carded from the cattle and a small amount of wool. Her daughter sat spinning this composition into yarn to be knit into fine socks, as they say. The method of preparing this stock for the wheel is rather amusing. After picking to pieces old yarn and woolen cloth, it is mixed with enough good wool to "galvanize" it. Then it is put in an old-fashioned dash churn, soap and water applied, and churned until it is ready for the cards; then it goes to the wheel the same that was used by grandmothers of old for spinning flax. The women of upper Aroostook are very industrious and great help-meets, as many times they can be seen at work in the field, planting, hoeing, haying, harvesting, and as a general thing, they manufacture their wool into cloth, sacks and mittens. Many whole families are clothed in wool of their own manufacture. Many card wool by hand, spin with the old flax wheel and weave with the old loom that has been in use for hundreds of years.

The ages of notable persons now spoken of in France are as follows: President MacMahon, 65; Comte de Chambord, 53; Prince Louis Napoleon, 18; Comte de Paris, 35; Duc de Chartres, 33; Duc de Nemours, 59; Prince de Joinville, 55; Duc d'Aumale, 51; Prince Jerome Napoleon, 51; M. Thiers, 76, M. Gambetta, 37.

ANNA DICKINSON AT NOROMBEGA.

An excellent, though not large, audience assembled in Norombega Hall last evening to listen to Miss Anna Dickinson's lecture—the third in the Grand Army course of entertainments. Miss Dickinson lectured in Poughkeepsie, N Y, Friday evening and immediately thereafter took a night train that met with an accident and was delayed so that she did not arrive in Boston until Sunday. She was consequently unable to reach this city until last evening, as no through night train leaves Boston on Sundays. Fortunately yesterday's train was on time, however, and taking a hasty cup of tea at the Bangor House she hurried to the hall, appearing on the stage only about twenty minutes later then the time entertainments usually begin. The audience was very patient at the delay and when Miss Dickinson was introduced by Capt Bartlett she was heartily cheered. She at once commenced her lecture speaking clearly and rapidly and using no notes.

For the last few weeks wherever she had been she had been astonished at the talk she had heard everywhere about a little island lying off the south west of us. Even now as there seems no cause of offense remaining, there still continues the same description of comment. Many people still think that it would have been an excellent thing to have had war with Spain, that it would have put money in circulation, brightened up trade, turned the factory wheels once more, and given employment to multitudes now without occupation unless they find it in pauperism or crime—Would it have put money in circulation without adding some hundreds of millions to a debt under which a people are already rolling and staggering as they pass? Would it have found employment for the poor? Truly, by butchering or being butchered in turn. A good thing to have war, you say, since it would have freed Cuba and wiped forever from the earth the tyrant Slavery. Every man who makes that assertion knows that it means the triumph of America over Spain, and that means a dagger to the heart of free government and free religion. To sweep Slavery from Cuba is to establish a Bourbon despotism and a worse bigotry of the Catholic Church for the next generation. I confess I recognize with a great deal of amusement, that the men who have been the loudest in their talk have not been the men who would in war have found occupation by going to the front. I think this talk about Cuba being a great gain to the Republic is the talk that has been heard for the last generation, that it would be an excellent thing for us to possess Central America, to annex Canada. It is a most admirable thing for this Government to spread abroad its skirts until they cover every portion of the North American continent, if indeed the real basis of power is found in extent of territory and number of population, and material growth, but let us remember, for it is history, that invariably as wealth accumulates, nations and men decay.

The speaker narrowed her comments on this broad topic to the conditions accompanying the evil she had alluded to, as seen in individual life in America, describing the intense passion for wealth which in this country excluded, according to her view, in large degree the finer sentiments and broader instincts of humanity. The speaker took up [illegible] remarking that the [illegible] had made the [illegible] equivalent to that of [illegible] the universal de[illegible] of public [illegible]. The sentiment [illegible] pronounced on the [illegible] at criminal, was [illegible] that the greatest [illegible] actually be put in [illegible] was the key [illegible] this most miserable and tragic Winter, crowded with horrible disasters of various kinds, she" teach us, said she, the [lesson] we learned and forgot ten years ago, we shall do well. No one said then "there is the Navy Department to look after the navy, and the Treasury Department to look after the Treasury," then the people went behind the officers and saw that they did the work. We showed, again, in those days, how we could [unite] ourselves with the great work to be done. We look upon these multitudes of people in our midst scarcely as human beings. We ignore them as not belonging to our family of humanity. We are not acquainted with the poor and the outcast. They want help, not charity, for charity creates want as it relieves it. They want the means and elements of education in order that they may become self sustaining.

The lecturer closed with a vivid description of sunrise, as she saw it from Gray's Peak, in the Rocky Mountains, where peak after peak caught the glow, until they all stood out bright in the broad light of day. Had she remained in the dark valley, instead of toiling up the mountain, the sunrise would have taken place just the same, and with the same effects, but she would not have been able to obtain the broad and comprehensive view which revealed the majestic beauties of the scene. The American people, she said, are in the valley; they cannot see, nor can they comprehend, the glorious future that lies before the country, until they boldly grapple with the difficulties that beset the ascent, and laying aside the narrow and burdensome selfishness which is their besetting sin, rise above prejudice, above meanness, into the light of God.

LETTER FROM CASTINE

CASTINE, Dec. 20, 1873

For several days we have had an installment of the London fog, mercury ranging from 20° to 40° plus. Prospects of a coal famine grew less, while fears of doctor's bills increase. As yet, however the general health is good. Monday was too windy for our ancient conveyance to start for Belfast, but Tuesday proved more favorable and the craft reached that, to us, distant land. She returned to us Thursday night, having, we learn, been two days and one night on the "broad deep," (about twelve miles broad) Our friends in Belfast have to pay hotel bills while deciding whether to brave the perils of storms and calms in crossing the bay or to spend a day in getting to Bangor by railroad, a night in a hotel and a day in the stage to Castine at a cost of about ten dollars for the triangular trip, when an hour in a steamboat and an outlay of one dollar would take them to this—if they could find the boat. Now that the Lewiston is "off" we have no certain communication with the western world other than by the roundabout route above mentioned. In these days of steam, comment upon this state of things is unnecessary, people will draw conclusions.

The good town seems quiet but much more business is done here than the casual observer would suppose. Much trade comes and goes by small boats from and to the main land and islands opposite. Our merchants do a steady paying business which shows that they retain the confidence of their customers. Most of the schools are having a vacation until the beginning of the new year. The usual society entertainments will be given this winter and it is rumored that our young and promising band will soon give a concert. In many respects it is pleasant to be in this beautiful town even in winter, but a better method of getting in and out would be a much needed sign of PROGRESS

NEW MAGAZINES

ST NICHOLAS. The January number of this magazine for the juveniles is replete with choice reading matter and fine illustrations which the little folks can but admire. The consolidation of "Our Young Folks" with "St Nicholas" furnishes them with a larger magazine which embraces all the best features of the old favorite. Scribner & Co New York, publishers.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE. The January number contains the continuation of "A New Hyperion," the interest of which is unabated. It is one of the most delightful and eccentric descriptions of European travel that has lately been submitted to the public. It is handsomely illustrated by Dore. An illustrated and highly entertaining article is presented describing the Trianon Palaces of Versailles, which are noted for being the residence of Marie Antoinette. The other portions are in keeping with the well earned reputation of the magazine. Every arrangement has been made for the new volume that is conducive to rendering it pleasing to its readers. A new serial, "Malcolm," by George MacDonald, will be begun in the February number. J P Lippincott & Co Philadelphia publishers.

THE GALAXY is just entering the eighth year of its existence. It has thus far aimed to be thoroughly up to the times in the choice of subjects which it has discussed and most of the live questions of the day are ably treated in its pages. Its liberal policy and high literary tone have drawn to it contributions from some of our ablest statesmen. Secretary Welles has given its readers an inside view of our naval operations during the Rebellion, and in his late series of papers on Mr Lincoln and Mr Seward has given many exceedingly interesting revelations as to the position, views, and acts of Mr Lincoln and the leading members of his Cabinet on the great questions which engaged their attention. The January number contains an article by Judge Black in reply to Mr Adams's eulogy on Mr Seward. Fair minded people will think that Judge Black has gone as far to one extreme as Mr Adams did to the other, in his estimate of Mr Seward. All the departments will be maintained as heretofore. Sheldon & Co, New York, publishers.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for January gives evidence of an effort to advance the standard of literary excellence for which the magazine has gained and maintained an unexceptional reputation. The corps of writers who will contribute for its pages this year are among the most prominent of the day and readers can rest assured that they will as heretofore, find matters of interest and value in the future issues. H O Houghton & Co publishers, Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass.

JOURNAL OF EDUCATION. This is a publication which every teacher in the State of Maine should read. The monthly issues edited by teachers from all parts of the State, contain suggestions and methods of instructing in the various branches taught in the most of our schools, which are invaluable, especially to young teachers. The magazine should receive the hearty support of teachers in Maine. Brown Thurston, publisher Portland Me.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK. This favorite magazine of the ladies opens the new year with a very brilliant number which contains the usual amount devoted to the fashions with excellent fashion plates, patterns, etc. The chromo illustration in this month's issue is entitled "Arctic Winter." Louis A. Godey, Philadelphia, publisher.

WE have received from the publisher, J. L Peters New York, the January number of Peters Musical Monthly and La Creme de la Creme, which contain a number of fine pieces of music, etc. To teachers or scholars these publications are of value.

OLD AND NEW begins its ninth volume with a strong and spirited number. Anthony Trollope's new story, "The Way we Live Now," is begun in it. A sprightly three part story of Washington society is also begun. But better than any of these is Mr Hale's very humorous short story of "A Civil Servant,"—a ludicrous picture of the life and experience of Mr John Sapp, a professional office-holder. Several important public topics are sensibly handled. Mr Hale, in his introduction, has stated very ably what the American diplomatic precedents prove about the "Virginius" case. An anonymous writer gives a clear and most interesting history of the Panic. Then, there is a good history of the Boston Tea Party of 1773, a hundred years ago, the second Mr Tyrwhitt's charming art-papers, one of Miss Hinckley's graphic sketches of "Country Sights and Sounds;" a careful and instructive notice of John Stuart Mill, and his Autobiography, the poems are as usual, excellent. Roberts Brothers, Boston, publishers.

COMMANDER BRAINE AT SANTIAGO. Commander Braine, in a letter to the Secretary of the Navy, dated Santiago de Cuba, Nov. 30, communicating information about the Virginius, says: "You will see by my letter to his excellency Senor Brigadier Commandante General Don Morales, that I protested against any further punishment to any of the officers and crew and passengers of the Virginius, irrespective of nationality, and if any more were ordered to be executed I must be informed before it took place, as I claimed the American flag protected all. I have taken means to circulate it ashore in the city that if any of the prisoners taken from the Virginius are executed, I will sink every Spanish gunboat and other Spanish men-of-war here that I can get at. I feel assured that this rumor has had a good effect."

VOICES.

BY FRANK ARBER BROWN

I hear them in the rain drops
As they patter on the leaves
[illegible] one descending
From the eaves

They whisper in the sunshine
As it cheers us after rain
But I look to see their faces
And in vain

They call me in the breezes
That dance upon the stream,
Yet I know not what they utter—
What they mean.

But when at eve I linger
By the grave of one held dear
These voices fall the sweeter
On my ear

Are they voices of Forever
Sweetly calling me to come
To a resting place eternal
In their home"

—[Ga[illegible] for Jan

A TALE OF THE FUTURE

"No, Sir I will not—I never bet. Once only in my life did I make a bet for a large sum, and I lost that in such a humiliating way that I registered a vow not to be bitten a second time"

"You quite raise my curiosity. As there is no chance of our settling by a friendly bet the little dispute as to what exact species of abomination our friend the costermonger is hawking you should at least let me have the benefit of your first and last experience in that line"

"It is an old story now but if you will light a cheroot I shall let you into the secret of my dislike to betting"

The speakers were both Englishmen and had met by chance at a little auberge in an out of the way village of the lower Engadine. Having dined together, they were having their cigars in the veranda when some trifling difference of opinion brought on the conversation given above.

As soon as madame the hostess had supplied their wants, the elder of the two began to relate the following incident with an air of veracity so strongly marked that his listener found it impossible to doubt the accuracy of what he said.

"The time I speak of is some twenty or five and twenty years ago, when the Alpine Club was still in its full glory. Things were very different then from what they are now. The Alpine Association had not yet been formed—destined as it was utterly to cast into the shade its Alpine predecessor. There was no railway over Mont Blanc and the idea of a [illegible] to the hotel on the top of the Matterhorn had not yet been started. In fact if I remember rightly the hotel itself had not been built. I was at that time a member of the club and few more enthusiastic individuals could have been found among the number of its admirers. Innumerable were the articles that I contributed to its journal, giving appalling accounts of the adventures I had met with in [illegible] peaks and climbing down precipices and other little performances of that nature. It [illegible] to be my delight and pride [illegible] to inscribe the magic letters A C after my name in the visitor's books in Swiss inns. Astonishing used to be the get up in which I started for the most ordinary mountain walk, girt about with a variety of ropes and ice axes, and spectacles, and belts. I can [illegible] of these little vanities now [illegible] took a very severe and a very expensive [illegible] entirely to cure me. And the way it came about was this. There was to be an annual dinner of the club held at the Crystal [illegible] on a certain day in May soon after I had taken my university degree. This dinner I had set my heart on attending but when the afternoon of the day arrived I received a letter from some country cousins, saying that they were coming up to town that day and [illegible] them to meet me at the train. This was pleasant but as there was no help for it I endeavored to calm my ruffled temper with [illegible] of my hookah, and so far succeeded that I was not actually rude to my relatives while escorting them across town—When I had thus done my duty, I began to [illegible] what to do with myself and what particular establishment I should favor with my custom for dinner that evening. Just as I had [illegible] this important matter, who should I [illegible] coming around a corner but my friend Jack H[illegible], the very man, of all others I should have wished to come upon [illegible]. Jack was as good a fellow as ever [illegible]—pleasant and light hearted [illegible] stuff in him [illegible] that—[illegible] he had no yet dined [illegible] arranged to have a quiet little dinner [illegible] at the smoking [illegible] forward. We had finished the second [illegible] discussing the wines and [illegible] when a stranger entered the room [illegible] seated himself at the table next to me. [illegible] all my life I have been a physiognomist [illegible] sense of the [illegible] as I do not assert that I can read a [illegible] general character from his appearance [illegible] this I can tell at the first glance which [illegible] man is potentially my enemy or my friend. In this judgement at first sight I [illegible] never yet found myself to be mistaken. The very moment the stranger entered the [illegible] where we sat I conceived an intense [illegible] to him—a feeling that the man, [illegible] were to cross my path, would prove a [illegible] and formidable foe. At a glance [illegible] could see that he was an American. The [illegible] face, the slouching gait and [illegible] the intensely free and easy manner [illegible] beyond the shadow of a doubt. [illegible] three chairs together he [illegible] himself [illegible] them and set himself [illegible] plainly and persistently at Jack and [illegible]. We were partly amused and partly [illegible] at the insolence of the man but as [illegible] we adjourned [illegible]. Soon after the American [illegible] us into the other room and [illegible] against the mantel piece while he [illegible] for the benefit of all present his [illegible] on things in general. Jack who had got over his first feeling of disgust seemed [illegible] to enjoy the man's eccentricity, and to [illegible] to draw him out as much as possible [illegible] soon he grew tired of this amusement so we resumed the talk we had been engaged in on [illegible] subject of the Alpine Club. Jack was [illegible] of joining it and in reply to his questions I gave a glowing description of all [illegible]. The harsh voice of the American [illegible] upon our ears with the remark 'I calculate the Alpine Club is a tarnation humbug.' Jack looked delighted and giving a sly glance at me proceeded to draw out our friend once [illegible]

"I hope Sir," he rejoined, in a most polite [illegible] that you give your reasons for that [illegible] as I had thought of becoming a member but of course would not do so if convinced that the whole concern was a humbug."

"Wal stranger you could not do a [illegible] thing than stay as you air. I guess [illegible] named the thing wrong. It should [illegible] Company Limited. Some 'tarnal duffer that calls himself an A C, goes up a [illegible] that all the folk near have known [illegible] years and then writes to all the European papers to say that he has made a first ascent. [illegible] reckon they've raised the prices of every [illegible] thing in Switzerland close on fifty per cent. Then they're such cheeky cusses too [illegible] and the greater the duffer the cheekier [illegible]. Don't do it stranger, don't do it"

While this was going on, I sat by silent [illegible] rapidly losing my temper. At last I could [illegible] it no longer and burst out with, 'This [illegible] mere vague abuse, Sir. I will bet you any [illegible] of money you choose to name that I will select a better mountaineer from the members of the club than any man you can name. [illegible] a fair offer? The Alpine Club against [illegible] world.'

The Yankee looked me over from head to foot and then drawled out, 'Wall, stranger, I guess I'll take your bet, if you'll let the mountaineer be between you and me. I [illegible] you $ [illegible]0,000 that before this time three years I'll have cut you out in tall climbing.'

I had spoken hastily and was perfectly taken aback at being closed with so quickly. However, I was in for it now, and could not go back from my word. As coolly as I could [illegible] said 'Just as you like. Let the bet be between you and me. The sum you name will [illegible] as good as any other, but of course must [illegible] lodged by both parties before the matter [illegible] finally arranged.'

'I calculate you're right, stranger. It [illegible]'t be long before you hear from me about [illegible]. What do you say your name is?'

'Forbes—Henry Forbes.'

'Mine is Zachariah Johnston, of New York City. Wall, I guess we're to meet here on this day three years, and whichever has [illegible] done the tallest and hardest mountain is to have the stakes. Shake hands on it.'

Here I was obliged reluctantly to stretch out my hand to be grasped by the bony fingers of the other. After this, he tossed the end of his cheroot into the fireplace and sauntered out of the room whistling 'Yankee Doodle.'

"The whole affair had not taken more than five minutes, so that Jack had not had time to interfere. His face at the moment when the American left the room, was a study for an artist. Astonishment, amusement, and a sort of tragic horror were all struggling for expression. When the door was fairly shut, he burst into an immoderate fit of laughter which lasted for some time. 'Well, if I did not think it was all a joke,' at last he found breath to say, "I should say it was as nasty a scrape as ever you got yourself into. Making a bet of £2,000 with an utter stranger—a bet that, if there were anything in it, would compel you to go roaming about the world for three years, and spend fabulous sums of money on nothing at all. I'll just go after him and explain that, of course nothing was meant by the thing, or else he will let that long tongue of his wag to such an extent that we shall never hear the last of it.'

"As he got up to leave the room the manager of the hotel came in with a very puzzled expression of countenance. 'Excuse me, Sir but are you Mr Forbes?'

"'Yes, Forbes is my name.'

"'Well Sir the American gentleman who has just left the house—very strange gentleman he appears to be—came to me a few moments ago and asked me to give you this slip of paper. But the strange part of the matter is gentlemen that he handed me a note of hand for £2,000 payable this day three years from which I gave him a receipt. He said it was some bet he had made with you Mr Forbes, and that you would understand about it.'

I felt as if I were in a sort of serio-comic dream, but mechanically took the slip of paper of which the manager had spoken—there were only a very few words on it 'This day three years, May 10, 183[illegible], at five in the afternoon, in the smoking room, Langham Hotel. Z J.'

'Where is the gentleman now?' I cried starting from my chair.

'Immediately after speaking to me he left the hotel and [illegible] a hansom drove off.'

I sank back seeing that I had been outwitted, and feeling very much inclined to use strong language.

Jack came over to me and laying his hand on my shoulder said, 'He's a sharp hand at a bargain, but cheer up, old fellow we'll take the wind out of his sails before we're done with him. Let me see now—I've just sold out of the 71st and don't well know what to do with myself. S[illegible] I'm your man for any mountainous excursion from this to Timbuctoo.'

'That's my dear fellow,' cried I, grasping his hand, 'but it won't do. I could not think of letting you go on this wild goose chase with me. Why heaven only knows how long I shall be away from England and for [illegible] my utmost to win the bet I certainly shall.'

'Don't talk any rubbish of that kind,' [illegible]. 'Why I could not think of a more amusing employment than seeing a little of the world and at the same time cutting out our friend the Yankee. No since I was partly the means of getting you into the scrape by talking at all to the man, I certainly mean to see you well out of it.'

PREMIUM FOR 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE by Thomas Moran whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten thousand dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent The East and The West. One is a view in the White Mountains New Hampshire the other gives The Cliffs of Green River Wyoming Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates and are in size (12x16) and appearance exact facsimiles of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonial over the signature of Mr Moran himself.

NEWARK N J, Sept 20th 1873

MESSRS JAMES SUTTON & CO

Gentlemen—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wonderfully successful representations by mechanical process of the original paintings.

Very respectfully

(Signed) THOS MORAN

These chromos are in every sense American. They are by an original American process with material of American manufacture, from designs of American scenery by an American painter and presented to subscribers to the first successful American Art Journal. If no better because of all this they will certainly possess an interest no foreign production can inspire and neither are they any the worse if by reason of peculiar facilities of production they cost the publishers only a trifle while equal in every respect to other chromos that are sold singly for double the subscription price of THE ALDINE. Persons of taste will prize these pictures for themselves—not for the price they did or did not cost and will appreciate the enterprise that renders their distribution possible

If any subscriber should indicate a preference for a figure subject the publishers will send "Thoughts of Home" a new and beautiful chromo 14x20 inches representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.

TERMS.

$5 per annum, in advance, with Oil Chromos free

For 50 cents extra, the chromos will be sent, mounted, varnished and prepaid by mail

THE ALDINE will, hereafter be obtained only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rate, cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers except in cases where the certificate is given bearing the facsimile signature of JAMES SUTTON & Co

BANGOR, ME.

To the Honorable Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Bangor.

Edwin Drew & Hiram Peavey, both of said Bangor, respectfully petition that a license to erect a stationary Steam Engine in said city, may be granted to them.

The building in which it is desired to erect said Engine, is a two story wooden structure situated on the corner of Washington and French streets in said Bangor, on the westerly side of said French St

The engine desired is of about 40-horse-power, the boiler to be 16 feet long and five feet in diameter, the furnace 4x5 feet and the smoke stack 70 feet in height.

The building aforesaid and the power therein to be placed, are to be used in the manufacture of axes and other implements of iron and wood. And your petitioners represent that such building and stationary steam engine may be erected and used for the purposes aforesaid, without endangering the property in the vicinity surrounding them, and therefore respectfully ask that the license prayed for may be granted, under such provisions for safety as, in your judgement, are required

Convention between the United States of America and Denmark Naturalization Concluded July 20 1872 Ratified January 2[illegible] 1873 Ratifications exchanged March 14 1873 Proclaimed April 15 1873

By the President of the United States of America

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas a convention between the United States of America and His Majesty the King of Denmark relative to the naturalization of citizens and subjects of the two countries was concluded and signed at Copenhagen by their respective plenipotentiaries on the twentieth day of July 1872 the original of which convention being in the English and Danish languages is word for word as follows

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of Denmark being desirous to regulate the citizenship of the citizens of the United States of America who have emigrated or who may emigrate from the United States of America to the Kingdom of Denmark and of Danish subjects who have emigrated or who may emigrate from the Kingdom of Denmark to the United States of America have resolved to conclude a convention for that purpose and have named as their plenipotentiaries that is to say the President of the United States of America Michael J Cramer minister resident of the United States of America at Copenhagen and His Majesty the King of Denmark Otto Ditlev Baron Rosenorn Lehn commander of Danebrog and Danebrogsmand chamberlain His Majesty's minister for foreign affairs &c &c &c

Who after having communicated to each other their respective full powers found to be in good and due form have agreed upon and concluded the following articles to wit

ARTICLE I

Citizens of the United States of America who have become or shall become and are naturalized according to law within the Kingdom of Denmark as Danish subjects shall be held by the United States of America to be in all respects and for all purposes Danish subjects and shall be treated as such by the United States of America

In like manner Danish subjects who have become or shall become and are naturalized according to law within the United States of America as citizens thereof shall be held by the Kingdom of Denmark to be in all respects and for all purposes as citizens of the United States of America and shall be treated as such by the Kingdom of Denmark

ARTICLE II

If any such citizen of the United States as aforesaid naturalized within the Kingdom of Denmark as a Danish subject should renew his residence in the United States the United States government may on his application and on such conditions as that government may see fit to impose, readmit him to the character and privileges of a citizen of the United States, and the Danish government shall not in that case claim him as a Danish subject on account of his former naturalization

In like manner, if any such Danish subject as aforesaid naturalized within the United States as a citizen thereof should renew his residence within the Kingdom of Denmark, His Majesty's government may on his application and on such conditions as that government may think fit to impose readmit him to the character and privileges of a Danish subject and the United States government shall not in that case claim him as a citizen of the United States on account of his former naturalization

ARTICLE III

If however a citizen of the United States, naturalized in Denmark, shall renew his residence in the former country without the intent to return to that in which he was naturalized, he shall be held to have renounced his naturalization

In like manner if a Dane, naturalized in the United States shall renew his residence in Denmark without the intent to return to the former country he shall be held to have renounced his naturalization in the United States

The intent not to return may be held to exist when a person naturalized in the one country shall reside more than two years in the other country

ARTICLE IV.

The present convention shall go into effect immediately on or after the exchange of the ratifications, and shall continue in force for ten years. If neither party shall have given to the other six months previous notice of its intention then to terminate the same it shall further remain in force until the end of twelve months after either of the contracting parties shall have given notice to the other of such intention

ARTICLE V.

The present convention shall be ratified by the President of the United States of America, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof and by His Majesty the King of Denmark and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Copenhagen as soon as may be, within eight months from the date hereof

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto their respective seals.

CONVENTION between the United States of America and the Orange Free State Friendship, Commerce and Extradition Concluded December 22 1871 Ratification advised by Senate April 24 1872 Ratified by President April 27, 1872 Ratified by Volksraad of Orange Free State May 10 1872 Ratifications exchanged at Washington August 18 1873. Proclaimed August 23 1873

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas a general convention of friendship, commerce and extradition between the United States of America and the Orange Free State was concluded and signed by their respective plenipotentiaries, at Bloemfontein, on the twenty second day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy one, which general convention is word for word as follows

GENERAL CONVENTION OF FRIENDSHIP COMMERCE AND EXTRADITION BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND THE ORANGE FREE STATE

The United States of America and the Orange Free State, equally animated by the desire to draw more closely the bonds of friendship which so happily exist between the two republics, as well as to augment, by all the means at their disposal, the commercial intercourse of their respective citizens, have mutually resolved to conclude a general convention of friendship, commerce and extradition.

For this purpose they have appointed as their plenipotentiaries, to wit The President of the United States, Willard W Edgcomb, special agent of the United States, and their consul at the Cape of Good Hope, and the president of the Orange Free State, Friedrich Kaufman Hohne, gov. secty, who, after a communication of their respective full powers, have agreed to the following Articles.

ARTICLE 1.

The citizens of the United States of America and the citizens of the Orange Free State shall be admitted and treated upon a footing of reciprocal equality in the two countries, where such admission and treatment shall not conflict with the constitutional or legal provisions of the contracting parties. No pecuniary or other more burdensome condition shall be imposed upon them than upon the citizens of the country where they reside, nor any condition whatever to which the latter shall not be subject.

The foregoing privileges, however, shall not extend to the enjoyment of political rights.

ARTICLE 2

The citizens of one of the two countries residing or established in the other shall be free from personal military service, but they shall be liable to the pecuniary or other contributions which may be required by way of compensation, from citizens of the country where they reside who are exempt from the said service.

No higher impost under whatever name shall be exacted from the citizens of one of the two countries residing or established in the other than shall be levied upon citizens of the country in which they reside, nor any contribution whatever to which the latter shall not be liable

In case of war or of the seizure or occupation of property for public purposes, the citizens of one of the two countries residing or established in the other shall be placed upon an equal footing with the citizens of the country in which they reside with respect to indemnities for damages they may have sustained

The citizens of each one of the contracting parties shall have power to dispose of their personal property within the jurisdiction of the other by sale testament, donation, or in any other manner, and their heirs whether by testament or ab intestato or their successors, being citizens of the other party shall succeed to the said property or inherit it and they may take possession thereof either by themselves or by others acting for them, they may dispose of the same as they may think proper paying no other charges than those to which the inhabitants of the country wherein the said property is situated shall be liable to pay in a similar case. In the absence of such heirs or other successors, the same care shall be taken by the authorities for the preservation of the property that would be taken for the preservation of the property of a native of the same country, until the lawful proprietor [illegible] had time to take measures for possessing himself of [illegible]

ARTICLE 11

This convention shall be submitted on both sides to the approval and ratification of the respective competent authorities and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as circumstances shall admit. In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles and have thereunto affixed their seals

Done in quadruplicate at Bloemfontein this 22d day of December in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one

Mr F W Kinsman —Dear Sir —We have had in all about 25 gross Adamson's Balsam and have retailed nearly 40 dozen of it over our retail counter. Parties have been in and bought it the second time and all pronounce it one of the best medicines in the market for coughs and colds. Some of our men have used it and say it is the best remedy they have tried

Dr Huntington says —I have known Dr Kinsman's Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam for some time and I regard it far before any medicine of the kind. I have used it in my practice and in my own family with complete success

No. 10 State St., Boston, Aug 8 1873

Dr F W Kinsman.—Dear Sir —It gives me great pleasure to say that Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam cured me of a severe cold to which I have been subject, especially during the winter months, and I have in many instances recommended it to my friends, and all have been benefitted by its use. We think it has no equal as a cough mixture.

Wall Papers.

We would call the particular attention of the public to our latest and handsomest styles of Wall Paper, surpassing anything of the kind heretofore offered or manufactured. We have recently placed one of the most elegant patterns of this paper on the walls of the Reception Parlor connected with Dr Babcock's Dental Rooms, and taking advantage of Dr B.'s permission, would invite all those who contemplate a purchase of this nature to call at his rooms and examine it before selecting elsewhere
